I am hands on with various Apple hardware and software technologies for users, developers and enterprises. I have developed various native iOS apps. I am enthusiastic about various software development tools and practises such as technical management, version control and deployment tools.

I am a big fan of beautifully designed software which are well crafted, end-to-end, keeping the intended users in mind. In my opinion, a software should be designed to work like a good appliance; easy to setup and operate, with minimal to no intrusion and predictable in behaviour.

I have close to 9 years of experience wearing multiple hats such as Software Developer, Technical Lead, and Project Manager. Apart from full time jobs, I have also worked on various projects as independent consultant.

I am looking for full time jobs which can utilise my skills and give me an opportunity to further grow as a software engineering professional.

I am a peoples person and highly interesting in mentoring other software engineering professionals.
